

ADULT CONGENITAL HEART DISEASE PHYSICIAN

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

NORTON CHILDREN'S HEART INSTITUTE, affiliated with the UofL School of Medicine, and a part of Norton Children's Medical Group, is seeking an adult congenital heart disease (ACHD) physician to join its established group. Our specialized team of providers consists of 35 board-certified pediatric cardiologists, advanced practice providers and support staff. Our cardiologists have expertise in pediatric cardiology, heart failure and transplantation, ACHD, pediatric interventional cardiology, cardiac imaging, fetal cardiology, telemedicine and electrophysiology. We also have designated anesthesiologists for cardiac procedures and a specialized critical care team.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

ABOUT THE POSITION

- Accepting applicants from adult cardiology and pediatric cardiology pathways
- Growing practice with more than 1,300 ACHD patients
- Dedicated ACHD team of three physicians, two nurse practitioners, two nurse clinicians, one full-time social worker and one full-time program coordinator
- ACHD surgical program and ACHD catheterization and electrophysiology programs with capabilities for complex interventions, including transcatheter pulmonary valve replacement and right and left temporary mechanical support (intra-aortic balloon pump, Impella heart pump)
- Collaboration with the Norton Heart & Vascular Institute Structural Heart Program and additional complex interventions, including transcatheter mitral and aortic valve replacement, TriClip and MitraClip procedures, and the Watchman device implantation
- Collaboration with local adult-service hospital's ventricular assist device program
- New catheterization and electrophysiology lab and cardiac intensive care unit
- CT scan and MRI capability with 3-tesla Philips MRI scanners
- Transthoracic and transesophageal echocardiography
- Opportunity for ACHD travel clinic
- Must be board certified in ACHD, or board eligible

REQUIREMENTS

- Medical degree/diploma
- Residency/fellowship certification
- Kentucky medical license or license eligible
